What's New In?

You no longer need to manually add additional graphics or place them within your drawings. Insert objects from anywhere, quickly and easily. (video: 3:40 min.) Make objects fill your drawing automatically, when you insert them. You can turn them off, or you can remove them from the drawing entirely, if you want. (video: 1:30 min.) Send drawings to others easily. Use shared folders or link them to your cloud storage, or share them directly to other apps on your device. Stakeout: Use your phone to hide in the bushes while you monitor your opponents from the safety of your own home. (video: 2:24 min.) The new Stakeout feature lets you share drawings with others in just a few simple steps. Open your drawing, and you'll find your new Stakeout and "Send" buttons on the command bar. Select your phone, and your drawing will automatically open in SketchUp on your mobile device. (video: 2:24 min.) You can also transfer your drawing to your mobile device with a couple of clicks. With the "Send" button, AutoCAD will open your drawings on your mobile device. (video: 2:24 min.) You can also start a new sketch on your mobile device and add it to your current drawing. After you're done, you'll be able to save your sketch and send it back to AutoCAD. (video: 2:24 min.) Design your own Form Functions: You can easily turn a rectangle into a rounded rectangle, and modify the ratio of the rounded corners. Now you can round a rectangle to any arc (or straight line) at any ratio. (video: 1:41 min.) Use the new RoundedRectangle to round any rectangle, and turn any polyline into a 2D ellipse. For example, you can create a circle using a polyline. You can also create circles, ellipses, and rectangles using a line or polyline. You can use a square or polyline to create a circle. You can also create ellipses, arcs, and other rounded objects. Use a square or polyline to create a circle. You can also create circles, ellipses, and rectangles using a line or polyline. You
